Highly Vignetted

No. 23

by Joseph A. Fleming

On the basis of information received from the oldest residents we herewith endeavor to give the best account of Main Street from the late fifties to about 1890 that we can from our personal recollections of the set-tup there up to 1910. Both of our authorities, Mr. Daniel Holsley and Mr. John McNamara, well remember the old covered bridge at the head of Main Street. This structure was built about 1878 and the present bridge erected the following year. The first building at the corner of the bridge in eighteen fifty-nine was the shoremark shop of Charles McCarty. Next came Mrs. Riley's hotel, in the upper story of which Stephon Hynes and Roy Hirt and Gill conducted their cigar making establishment. Next came the Mrs. McNamay hotel, then the new hotel then Taylor Deckers hotel and livery which was destroyed by fire in the early nineties.

Then came a small building used after this fire by Jerry Draper as a liquor store. This building stood on the site of the present day Post Office building of the Patriot Hrady house. Then two frame buildings of which only the one of which housed the old hotel upon which he built the present brick structure.

Below this old hotel, on the same side of the street, the remaining buildings are mentioned as the property of the Poerger and Roper homes. The William Burr house dealers store and residence and the Thomas O'hara Hotel, Baptist Church, the Henry Keser house (corner of School Lane), the "old" school, and further on the Patrick McCall house.

Returning to the old covered bridge and crossing the street the first building was the Peter O'Con-hor home across the cove. Its walls are still visible. Next came the Simon Van Wagner home which housed the old Benjimen and Samuel Dusdell home which still stands. After the war this house which later in years was used by the Hyatt family. This adjoined the Sim-non Peters-Kentor store which stores are also mentioned remember as Dockett's Drug Store. After that came the Billy Bogar-due home and blacksmithing establishment at the corner of "Mill" cove. On the corner of this lake Dr. Schoonmaker erected the fire residence we see there today. Another building stop on the site of the fire house. Here in later years was erected the Jacksider and Rodney Poley store, both of which are here today. The market in the big dree of "ninety-five". Next came the old Reformed Church and the Dr. Benjimen strompo cottage, the James policy residence, the Sammonna hotel and residence and the James P. Hardenbergh house, one of the oldest hotel upon which he built to have been built by the Corna.

This is the MacKenzie home and in the era under consideration was the house laid on that side of the street. This period evidently predates "twenty-ny" as the Episcopal Church was erected in 1878.

Within the writer's own memory many of the properties on

By the next building was also the property of the Schillen family and the present Disney Store was in the hose store of Harry T. Clark. He and the William Wearsvank sale came next. This building was the local Post Office in the second Cleveland administration.

John J. O'Hara was then postmaster. Later it was the Polly Kentor Newstand. Emil Miller had a bar in the Stoll building and Meyers' Garage was the fine retaurant of Connella J. Dell. At this point we observe that we are too near our thousand word weekly limit to warrant undertaking the detailing of the history of the remaining properties on the south side of Main street and rather any slight of any interest in consideration therewith we propose to supplement this article with as many others on the same subject as are needed to give all the available information concerning Main Street.
