Do You Remember?

Ellsworth, Jerome Woolsey, Rufus Wood, Oblenus Dubois, Abraham Kelder and William Fleming. Front row left to right Jas. Smith, Sam'l Van Tassell, Harry McLaughlin, Hiram Dubois, Albert Keator, Jas. Shields, Eli Auchmoody, Burt Osterhoudt, Burt Snyder, Jos. Daly, John Sulky, Jas. Brown, Merritt Van Wagner, Hugh Malia, Silas Auchmoody, Rev. A. B. Ding, Silas Snyder, Ira Dubois and the host chief Mr. Edw. T. Elmore of New Paltz where this picture was taken; which fact accounts for our inability to recognize any of the bystanders in the background. This picture by no means shows the complete roster of the fire company of that period. This is a "Convention Picture" comprising only those enabled to leave their work a day duties to attend. Those unable to attend the convention probably constituted one-third of the entire organization.

There must be somewhere another picture taken locally and considerably earlier which shows the pioneer and charter members as they frequently paraded in the nineties, minus uniforms.

Active Hose was organized after the fire of "ninety-five". The history of its organization and the participants therein we hope to make the subject of an article after adequate research. Active Hose usually made a good impression at convention parades. Minus the bizzare and devoid of ostentation they were well drilled and often, cleverly executed figure cutting and tactical military formations to the high approval of many along the line of march in convention towns and cities.

Their demonstrated abilities in fire control helps greatly to keep down the local fire insurance rates.

The motorization and modernizing of this company being beyond the ninety year range of these articles and somewhat too near the present to study in historical perspective we will defer comment thereon until later.

Personal note: Our old-time directory of Rosendale as compiled to date contains about five thousand names and names Send in the names of your forbears to insure inclusion therein.
